

7. Conclusion

After all these we can conclude that, JSPs give us the flexibility to separate the business logic from the presentation logic using JavaBeans. Because designer can design web pages and java developer can write server-side logic without care about web design. So that JSP easier than Java servlets when developing dynamic web pages.