

About the authors

CHRISTOPHER A LANGLEY is a qualified pharmacist who graduated from Aston University in 1996 and then undertook his pre-registration training at St Peter's Hospital in Chertsey. Upon registration, he returned to Aston University to undertake a PhD within the Medicinal Chemistry Research Group before moving over full-time to Pharmacy Practice. He is currently employed as a Lecturer in Pharmacy Practice, specialising in teaching the professional and legal aspects of the degree programme.

His research interests predominantly surround pharmacy education but he is also involved in research examining the role of the pharmacist within both primary and secondary care. This includes examining the pharmacist's role in public health and the reasons behind and possible solutions to the generation of waste medication.

DAWN BELCHER is a qualified pharmacist who graduated from the Welsh School of Pharmacy in 1977 and then undertook her pre-registration training with Boots the Chemist at their Wolverhampton store. After registration she worked as a relief manager and later as a pharmacy manager for Boots the Chemist until 1984. Whilst raising a family she undertook locum duties for Boots the Chemist and in 1986 became an independent locum working for a small chain of pharmacies in the West Midlands while also working for Lloyds Chemist.

In 1989 she began sessional teaching with the Pharmacy Practice group at Aston University which continued until she took a permanent post in 2001. She now enjoys teaching practical aspects of pharmacy practice whilst still keeping an association with Lloydspharmacy where she is employed as a relief manager.
